Are you thinking about making the Urban Jungle beanie but aren't sure about how to crochet the Puff Stitch called for in the pattern? No problem; I'm here for you. Check out my quick, video tutorial and then type on over to the Crochet-Along started by stitching fan Cami, on Ravelry!

Stitch.Rock.Love,

Niki

P.S. Did you see this week's Movie Monday: Whiteout? I'm really digging on the over-sized, cabled cardigan that Kate Beckinsale wears in it!

It's official. The one-button, mid-length sleeved cardigan is now The Most Versatile Garment Ever. Ann E. Smith gives us yet another cardigan to add to our list of such favorites. The Sapporo Cardigan features flattering horizontal lines of a zig zag panel paired perfectly with shoulder-placed cables. Fabulous in merino-blend Country yarn.

We were delighted when several folks asked for an adult version of the Divi Toddler Hoodie, designed by Marilyn Losee. We agree, the easy, open knitted style looked comfy enough for babies and their moms. So Marilyn worked up the Divi Adult Hoodie in bamboo-blend Spa yarn. It has all of the convenient features of the toddler version—easy neck opening, generous hood—and a slouchy style all it's own.

It's not polite to stare, we know. But at a recent trade show, when Kim Guzman's gorgeous creation—aptly named Streamwave Throw—was on display, people did just that. The beautiful combination of Simply Soft® Paints' watery colorway defined by the contrasting Simply Soft® solid makes a dazzling statement that is really quite breathtaking.
