Vickie Howell
for CARON

I'm so excited because this week, I'm headed off to the Sheep & Wool Festival in Rhinebeck, NY. I've been intending to go for years, but this will be the first time I actually make it! The best part about the trip (other than the obvious shopping opportunities), is that I'll be spending the weekend with several friends from across the country all of whom I met years ago through an online knitting group. The knitting & crochet community has provided me with such great friendships, many of which would have never happened without the internet. I'm thrilled to be able to connect with fellow stitchers through places like Twitter, Facebook and the Cuckoo for Caron Flickr Group. Please join me there, won'tcha?

It's Movie Monday time again! Barry Munday is in theaters now and the yarnwear from it is featured on the Caron Blog!

V-Neck Topper

We love long and roomy tops, and we know many of you do, too. Reneé Barnes' V-neck Topper, crocheted in Forest Floor, a perfect shade of Simply Soft® for fall projects, fits the bill nicely. Paired with skinny jeans and a long-sleeved tee, this on-trend topper will make your autumn wardrobe complete.

His Aspen Scarf

When Kim Guzman created Her Aspen Neckwarmer, she also designed the man-worthy matching His Aspen Scarf. Less bulky than a full-sized scarf, His Aspen Scarf is not short on style, adding distinctive flair under a any jacket. The beautiful colorwork is crocheted in three harmonizing shades of NaturallyCaron.com Country. Why not put this his-and-her set on your gift list for your favorite couple?

His Tri-Color Hat

Speaking about gifts, be sure to put His Tri-Color Hat on your gift list, too. Brenda Lewis has designed the hat with a simple slip stitch knit pattern, making it easy to achieve the striking colorwork on the crown. And the deep fold-over ribbing makes for a comfortable fit on any size head. And of course, you can adjust the colors to make hats for all the lucky women in your life, too.
